5th October 2007

JHI Conference, Sofia, Bulgaria

Susannah Adams, Anthony Harris and Gerry Jackson attended the JHI Audit and Tax schools held in Sofia, Bulgaria, at the end of September. The event was well attended, including other British JHI members in London and Edinburgh as well as delegates from as far afield as India, New Zealand and Chile. All three of our team gave full presentations to their respective groups, and all the presentations appear to have been well-received.

Gerry's presentation, which contained some mildly anti-French comments, was especially well received as there were no French attendees! Susannah demonstrated her expertise in Corporate Valuations which emphasised that this was not a subject that just any accountant could do. Anthony spoke on "Business Risk" encompassing both the audit requirement, but also a practical way to measure and monitor risk from a management perspective.

Amusingly, Gerry and Anthony tried to set up a poker game, only to have it closed down as an illegal gambling racket!
